

'Revealing Hope' videos share stories of inspiration

Hope is the watchword for the season as well as our posture before a loving God! How wondrous it is, in this season and all seasons, when those in our congregations share with us and live their stories of hope, reflecting a faith in the God of resurrection, whose final word is life.

In 2017, as part of the 300th anniversary of the Synod of the Trinity, we are sharing some of these stories of life and hope in a feature called "Revealing Hope."

Among the "Revealing Hope" stories already produced feature:

David Bailey – The son of the Rev. Dr. Kenneth Bailey, David was a singer and songwriter who didn't let a terminal brain tumor slow him down.

Heidi Bracken – Heidi overcame years of abuse and suicidal tendencies to turn her life around, finding a shining light in a friend that she now calls "mom."

Eleanor Presbyterian Church – Despite a water-pipe break that flooded the building, this congregation in West Virginia has been rejuvenated following a renovation project.

Calvin Presbyterian Church – Missionaries from the South Sudan had a great impact on some local boys who were only looking for a free meal. Now the Ellwood City, PA, congregation is searching for ways to get them more involved in the life of the church.

New grants available for 300th

In celebration of the Synod of the Trinity's 300th anniversary, the Synod has created two new grants that are available to those serving in our region.

The first is an Abundance Grant, which is being offered to every presbytery in the Synod with the opportunity for a matching grant of $3,000 toward a world mission project or partnership of their choice.

The second is a Freedom Grant, which will seed projects that relate to the plight of the African American male issue across our communities. We will be offering six grants of $5,000 ($30,000 total). Deadline is June 30.
